

Consultation on Digital for Cultural Heritage

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

Europe's cultural institutions such as libraries, archives, non-commercial galleries and museums have vast and rich collections, and it is important that they are not just stored in vaults but preserved for future generations and made accessible to the larger public. Furthermore, Europe's monuments, historical buildings and archaeological sites face increasing threats related to natural disasters, accidents, pollution, mass tourism, vandalism or even deterioration over time. The accidental fire at Notre-Dame in Paris in April 2019 was only one tragic reminder of the risks faced by our most valuable cultural heritage assets, and thus of the need to urgently act in this domain.

Advanced technologies, such as 3D, artificial intelligence (AI), augmented reality (AR) and virtual reality (VR), bring unprecedented opportunities, today, to digitise cultural heritage, for preservation, conservation, restoration, research, as well as for a broader, more democratic online access and re-use by various sectors, such as tourism.

The COVID-19 pandemic confirmed once more the importance of enabling the cultural heritage sector to seize the opportunities provided by digital technologies. While some of cultural heritage institutions have managed to use these technologies and turn the crisis into new opportunities for creative expression, more engagement and expansion of audiences, others have been heavily affected, with significant loss of revenue.

It is thus essential to ensure that, in an age of a major transformation of the society and the economy, the cultural heritage sector is equipped with the best tools, resources, knowledge and skills to make the most of the digital transition.

As part of this process, the European Commission is evaluating one of the main policy instruments on digitisation, online access and digital preservation of cultural heritage material, Commission Recommendation of 27 October 2011 on the digitisation and online accessibility of cultural material and digital preservation \(2011/711/EU\) (the "Recommendation"). The Recommendation contains a set of guidelines to Member States and cultural heritage institutions in order to foster the digitisation of cultural heritage material across Europe, to improve online and cross-border access to such content, and to contribute to its digital preservation.

The aim of this consultation is to gather the views of citizens, competent authorities in the Member States, national and regional cultural heritage institutions, international organisations, concerned stakeholder umbrella organisations, the Europeana ecosystem of organisations and professionals, technology stakeholders with research, products and services in ICT for cultural heritage on:

- a) the importance of digitisation and digital transformation in the cultural heritage sector and the ways of supporting such processes.
- b) the relevance and future of the Recommendation referred to above.

Your participation and feedback to this consultation will help the European Commission to shape the appropriate policy framework and actions to preserve Europe's valuable cultural assets and to give better visibility to its unique cultural diversity.

Depending on your answers, the questionnaire may take approximately 8 minutes.

At the end of the questionnaire, you will be asked if you would like to answer a few additional in-depth questions related to the Recommendation and, optionally, to upload a document (e.g. position paper).

The Copyright in the DSM Directive, adopted in 2019, has updated EU rules relating to preservation, the public domain and the digitisation and making available of out of commerce works. We believe that the focus should now be on Member States' implementation of these new rules by June 2021 and that there should be coordination with stakeholders such as CMOs, CHIs, rightholders and the EUIPO. It would not be appropriate to launch new initiatives right now.

17. In your view, how important or valuable is the availability of digitised cultural heritage content for re-use for the following activities/sectors?

18. Are there other sectors where you think the re-use of digitised cultural heritage would be particularly valuable?

19. Do you think that digital technologies can empower and encourage people into more active and creative cultural participation, e.g. by developing new content themselves on the basis of digitised cultural heritage or putting their own cultural content online on a website or blog?

- Strongly agree
- Agree

- Neither agree nor disagree
- Disagree
- Strongly disagree
- I don't know / no opinion

Digital transformation

20. In your view, and in the light of the COVID-19 crisis, what are the most important aspects of digital transformation in the cultural heritage sector? You can select multiple answers:

- Adopting advanced digitisation technologies
- Creating a more agile digital environment (e.g. in terms of processes, awareness, culture, leadership)
- Acquiring advanced digital skills
- Carrying out mass digitisation of existing and new material
- Providing online access to digitised content
- Using digitised content in immersive experiences with the help of interactive technologies such as VR and AR
- Organising virtual exhibitions online
- Putting in place curation structures for digital assets
- Other (please specify).

If Other, please specify

The experience of IFRRO's members during the Covid-19 crisis has demonstrated how important licensing has been in relation to digital cultural heritage. Innovative collective licensing solutions were provided by RROs to enable remote access to digitised content at a time when it was impossible to access cultural heritage institutions. For example, Copydan Writing in Denmark, and Bonus Copyright Access in Sweden worked with their National Libraries to enable digital access to newspaper archives by researchers, who were unable to attend the library premises. In Norway, an agreement was concluded (until 1 July) with the National Library of Norway providing Norwegian pupils and students free access to all books made available through the National Library's online catalogue. See further details in IFRRO's survey report on the impact of Covid-19 published in May 2020 (https://www.ifrro.org/sites/default/files/ifrro_report_survey_covid19_final_2.pdf). A more recent IFRRO survey shows that members across the EU have worked with cultural heritage organisations during the Covid-19 crisis to adapt existing licences or develop new services or licences to enable online access to and re-use of digital cultural heritage, including also in Austria, Belgium, Czechia, Finland, France, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, the Netherlands, Poland, and Spain.

Specific questions about Recommendation 2011/711/EU

25. Would you like to answer more specific questions about the Recommendation?

- Yes
- No

26. (This and the following questions in this section are all dependent on selecting Yes under the previous question) Do you agree or disagree with the following statements about the Recommendation?

	Strongly agree	Agree	Neither agree nor disagree	Disagree	Strongly disagree	I don't know / no opinion
The provisions of the Recommendation have been implemented effectively and have achieved their objective to improve conditions in the areas addressed.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
The benefits of implementing the Recommendation are significant and justify the costs, which are proportionate.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>
The Recommendation has been coherent with other EU policies and initiatives (for example, with the Public Sector Information Directive, relevant copyright provisions including the Orphan Works Directive and the Directive on Copyright in the Digital Single Market, or Europeana's mission).	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
As an instrument at EU level, the Recommendation provides added value, compared to the initiatives that Member States would have taken in the absence of it.	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
Having such a Recommendation continues to be important, but it should be updated to reflect better today's needs in the area of digitised cultural heritage, and increase the potential of Europe's cultural heritage.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

27. In your view, what would be the best future course of action concerning the Recommendation?

- Broadening the scope of the Recommendation to include cultural heritage currently not addressed or minimally addressed (e.g. intangible and immovable cultural heritage)

Broadening the scope of the Recommendation to include the digital transformation of cultural heritage institutions, in addition to digitisation, online access and digital preservation of cultural heritage

- Both of the above
- No change, continue with the provisions of the Recommendation as they stand

28. Do you have something else to suggest for the future of the Recommendation?

As previously explained, the Copyright in the DSM Directive has now been adopted and the focus should be on good and timely implementation by Member States, coordinating with key stakeholders such as CMOs, CHIs, rightholders and the EUIPO. Constructive cooperation and dialogue with stakeholders at EU-level also continues to be important going forward.

29. Which of the following would be especially important to you in the event of a revision of the Recommendation, considering the lessons learned from the COVID-19 crisis? You can select multiple answers.

- Digital transformation of the cultural heritage sector, including capacity building through acquisition and development of advanced digital literacy and skills
- Cultural heritage currently not addressed (e.g. intangible and born-digital cultural heritage)
- More consideration of immovable cultural heritage (archaeological sites, monuments and historic buildings)
- Pan-European efforts for 3D digitisation of cultural heritage artefacts, monuments and sites
- New quantitative targets for immovable cultural heritage to be digitised in 3D
- Europeana's role as the EU flagship for online access to cultural heritage and as an enabler of digital transformation
- Qualitative targets per Member State for Europeana content
- Encouraging Member States to provide high-quality content to Europeana
- More multilingual content, functionality and tools to enable users to experience content in their own language
- Creating high-value cultural heritage data sets (e.g. sets of digitised cultural artefacts with high-quality metadata) for helping innovation in AI and for research
- Provisions on online engagement, online participation, and online re-use
- Empowerment of citizens as consumers, creators and 'prosumers'

- Ethical and privacy issues arising in the context of digitising cultural heritage and providing online access to it
- Other (please specify)

Other suggestions and comments

30. Do you have other suggestions for or comments on improving digitisation, online access, digital preservation and digital transformation in the cultural heritage sector?

Raising awareness about licensing in the cultural sector, e.g., in relation to the digitisation and making available of cultural heritage, and about best practices when it comes to negotiating licences, is important for improving digitisation initiatives, online access etc.
